Mother charged in slaying of son

By Bob State

Staff writer

A Pontoon Beach woman has been charged with murder for allegedly stabbing her two-year-old son to death Thursday afternoon.

She was also charged with attempting to murder her four-year-old daughter. Monica Rajowitz, 28, of the 4000 block of Kathy Drive, was charged with murder and attempted murder in a warrant issued Friday. She was being held without bond.

Police said Friday they believe Rajowitz stabbed her son, Jeremiah McBride, 2, and her daughter, Michelle McBride, 4, multiple times before slashing herself at their apartment at about 3:45 p.m. Thursday.

The two children were taken by ambulances to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where the boy was pronounced dead from stab wounds in the chest and back.

After undergoing surgery Thursday, the girl was transferred to a Louis Children's Hospital on Friday. She was listed in critical but stable condition. Friday afternoon.

Rajowitz was transported to Anderson Hospital in Maryville and later taken to St. Louis University Medical Center, where she was being held in protective custody. Friday was believed to be in satisfactory condition.

Neighbors said they heard Rajowitz scream "I did it. I did it. I killed them and now I'm going to die, too."

Pontoon Beach Police Det. Capt. Mike Crouch said four knives were recovered from the apartment — one from upstairs, where the children's bedrooms are located, and three from the kitchen, where most of the blood was found.

A third child, age 6, was not home at the time of the slayings, Crouch said.

Crouch confirmed that police had been requested at least six times in the last six weeks to take Rajowitz to mental institutions — including earlier Thursday afternoon.

A paramedic and an officer went to the apartment and (Rajowitz) was very rational. She didn't want to go to (the) Ketterer (Center) and she wasn't being violent at that time.

Antiquated
juvenile detention center in need of repair, renovationBy Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

The ceiling in Superintendent Steve Bowker's office at the Madison County Juvenile Detention Home off Troy Road in Edwardsville no longer sports plastic sheeting.

He still has a water-stained trail along the office's carpeting, though, to remind him of what rain and melting snow bring to Haller House, the actual name of the juvenile detention center.

Plastic does still droop from the ceiling in the office space outside Bowker's. A similar scene can be found in the home's control room, where staffers have even hooked a hole for drainage into a carefully placed bucket.

The plastic there protects the building's monitor and public address system.

Both the ceilings and the walls below them show the signs of water damage.

A new roof would solve most of the water problems and new plumbing would remedy the rest, Bowker said.

Water problems, however, don't weigh nearly as heavy on Bowker's mind as do the building's violations cited repeatedly by the Illinois Department of Corrections for the last seven years.

The Illinois Attorney General's office will likely take legal action against the county if those violations, which were to have been corrected more than three years ago, are not in compliance soon.

To try to avoid legal action, the Madison County Board has voted to put a tax referendum on the April 20 ballot, which would result in a tax increase of 2 cents per $100 of assessed valuation for homeowners throughout the county.

The wording of the ballot question is vague and may allow for the construction of a new $4 million facility. But at its meeting earlier this month, the board voted to spend no more than $5,000 to do a preliminary study on the building to determine whether some or all of the existing structure could be used in the project.

"We might come out better just staying in this building," Bowker said.

The violations cited include: overcrowding, faulty air-handling systems, inadequate plumbing and restroom facilities, and lack of a sprinkler system.

Bowker said another hazard is that the building's alarm system is not tied into the heating and cooling system. If a fire broke out in the building, this could be deadly.

Realignment to cut schools' costs
$92,790 savings will be used for new textbooksBy Mike Myers
Staff writer

An administrative staff realignment will allow the Granite City School District to save about $92,790 next year.

Granite City Superintendent Steve Balen said all of the $92,790 saved by the realignment will be "immediately earmarked" to purchase new textbooks.

Elementary schools in Granite City came under fire earlier this year when it was reported that teachers were provided with 20-year-old science and health textbooks. New books were selected two years ago, said Richard Brinkoff, director of elementary education, but the state program used to purchase the books was cut back and the books were never received.

On Friday, Brinkoff was "putting the order together (for textbooks) as we speak," said Norm Owca, director of finance. "He's so thrilled, I'm not sure his feet are touching the ground when he walks."

Owca said the realignment is "making the most effective use of who we have while reducing expenses by attrition." He said many of the workload shifts are possible because of computerization and improved technologies and shifting demands for services.

"There is no doubt these changes will mean increased work for some administrative and support personnel," Owca said. "But it will have no adverse effect on the quality of classroom instruction nor will it have an effect on the teachers except, perhaps, more may be asked of the department heads at the high school."

Tuesday, the positions of administrative assistant for secondary education, currently held by Mike Sikora, and director of vocational education, audio-visual and health, currently held by Tom Holloway, will be combined into a single position, to be held by Holloway after Sikora retires at the end of the year.

The change will save the district an estimated $58,515, Owca said.

The realignment will make the assistant principal position at Coolidge Junior High School, currently held by Vince Rogier, an interim position paid at teacher, rather than administrator, salary. Rogier will become principal at Marshall School, replacing the retiring Walt Whitaker, and an unnamed teacher will be elevated to the Coolidge position.

Owca said these changes will save the district an estimated $26,002.

Other changes brought about by the realignment include combining the district's top computer specialist and audio-visual positions to create a coordinator of media services. Along with that, the A-V secretary position will be reduced from a 12-month position to a 9-month position. These changes will save about $12,946, Owca said.

The position of health officer will be eliminated and replaced by a position of head nurse. The

Leaf ban
Lawmakers
may bar
burning

SPRINGFIELD — Lawmakers are moving to ban leaf-burning in urban areas of Madison County.

Illinois House and Senate committees moved bills Wednesday to bar open burning of tree leaves and other landscape wastes in counties with more than 100,000 population, except in municipalities of less than 1,000 population.

But bills that would ban burning tobacco leaves, through cigarettes in restaurants, failed in House committees.

The leaf-burning ban passed a House committee on a 20-1 vote and a Senate committee 7-3.

Backers argued it was time for the state to step in and ban leaf-burning in the most populous areas to protect the public health because local governments have been reluctant to do so.

Supporters, including environmental and health groups, argued open burning causes breathing difficulties for those with asthma and other respiratory diseases. They said the burning leaves also put at least seven chemicals known to cause cancer into the air.

About 20 years ago, the state Environmental Protection Agency proposed regulations to ban leaf-burning statewide but there was such a public uproar the legislature passed a bill leaving the matter to local governments.

Madison has allowed leaf-burning during specific time periods in past years; Granite City has not.

There were no opponents testifying against the bills before committees on Wednesday.

chicken restaurant at 2868 Madison Ave. The loan was to have been repaid in quarterly installments of $3,972.

Bridick has not made a payment since June of last year and county officials said their patience has run out.

"We waited as long as we felt we could," said county Community Development Administrator Cheryl Jouett, whose office oversees distribution of economic development loans.

In addition to falling behind on the loan, county officials allege Bridick violated the terms of the loan agreement by not hiring enough low-income individuals at the restaurant.

Community Development loans like the one Bridick received are intended to create jobs and foster economic growth in poor neighborhoods.

Under the terms of his agreement with the county, Bridick was to have hired one low-income applicant for every $5,000 in community development money, or 20 low-income individuals.

Jouett said he did not meet that goal but the exact hiring figures were unavailable.

A hearing has been scheduled for April 2 to decide whether to allow the county to repossess the refrigerators, stoves and other kitchen equipment Bridick put

Bills would hike DUl penalties; blood level change rejected

SPRINGFIELD — A Senate committee has approved stiffer drunken driving penalties but declined to lower the state's blood-alcohol level for intoxication.

A package of bills proposed by Secretary of State George Ryan included a provision to drop the blood-alcohol level from .10 percent to .08 percent.

"We're for .08 because we realize that the average driver has to consume four or five drinks in an hour to reach that level," Ryan said. "That's a driver who may not feel it, but whose motor and reflex skills are diminished considerably."

The committee took no vote on changing the level Tuesday but agreed to study the idea. Lawmakers did agree to stiffen laws regarding underage drinking.

The approved package includes a bill that would suspend the licenses of anyone under age 21 convicted of the illegal transportation of alcohol. Licenses would be revoked for second offenses.

Minors currently face one-year suspensions after two convictions in a single year.

Another bill targets teens who use phony driver's licenses to buy alcohol. It would require $500 fines or 50 hours of community service for those convicted.

Ryan said teen-agers pay hundreds of dollars to illicit businesses for fake licenses so they can buy alcohol. He said the law would help curb such practices.

In other action the committee approved a bill requiring motorists to turn on their headlights during fog, or when the weather requires them to use their windshield wipers.

Rejected a bill that would establish a high-speed rail authority. Lawmakers said the bill would duplicate the activities of the Illinois Department of Transportation and that the legislation would give the authority too much power.

Passed a change to the child safety seat law that eliminates the exemptions for non-residents and medical emergencies.

The bills will be debated by the full Senate.

Perot chairman's ouster applauded

Local coordinators for Ross Perot's United We Stand America reacted with satisfaction to the recent dismissal of the group's Illinois chairman.

UWSA Illinois Chairman Tom Wing of Chicago was dismissed on March 18 by Ralph Perkins, the group's northeastern regional manager.

Perkins cited failure to communicate with local organizations as one of the main reasons for Wing's ouster, according to a UWSA press release.

The Madison and St. Clair County coordinators for United We Stand America both said they were in favor of the move.

"A destructive force has been removed," said Madison County Coordinator Dan Counts of Granite City.

"There was no give-and-take with Tom, and he didn't let us know what was going on. Much of our information from Dallas came from out-of-state."

St. Clair County Coordinator Sandra Millatt said she felt like a burden had been lifted from the group's shoulders.

"We appreciate Tom's efforts and wish him well," she said. "But this is a new day for our organization."

The local coordinators said they felt Wing's removal will help revitalize UWSA's membership drive in Illinois.

UWSA headquarters in Dallas will not replace Wing as chairman. Instead, they will hire a state executive director from within the state organization.

Each district will elect a representative to a state steering committee, which will elect a state chairperson and treasurer.

Perkins estimated the search process will take 30 to 45 days. Meanwhile, Interim Director Jan Horner of Springfield will coordinate information between Dallas and Illinois, and local groups will continue to organize.

The next Madison County UWSA meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 6, at Randy's Restaurant in Troy. St. Clair County will meet next at 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 13, at the Townhouse Restaurant in Belleville.

Anyone interested in learning more about United We Stand America is invited to attend.

United We Stand America is a nation-wide group formed by supporters of Perot, who ran unsuccessfully as an independent for president last year. The group will lobby Congress on issues stressed by Perot in his campaign, including reducing the federal deficit.

Illinois State Police Director Terrance Gainer, right, discusses the state's second largest cocaine bust during a press conference last week to announce the bust. Drug Enforcement Administration Special Agent in Charge John Sutton is with Gainer, and U.S. Attorney Frederick Hess can be seen in the background.

Cocaine bust along I-55/70 was 2nd largest ever in state

By Martin Richter
Staff writer

The Illinois State Police celebrated St. Patrick's Day here with the second largest drug bust in the history of the state — 914 pounds of cocaine seized from a recreational vehicle following a routine traffic stop on Interstate 55/70 one mile east of Collinsville.

Drug Enforcement Administration Special Agent in Charge John F. Sutton said the arrests cracked a major cross-country cocaine distribution ring linked to the Cali cartel in Colombia. The shipment originated in Los Angeles, and was en route to New Jersey.

"With this amount of cocaine, there's no question that it is involved with a Colombian cartel," Sutton said. "It is in fact a major drug trafficking cartel, and we have dealt it a major blow with this seizure."

Sutton said the seizure will have a significant impact on the supply of cocaine in the northeast.

"Plus it provides us a lot of intelligence about cocaine dealers in New York, New Jersey and the Los Angeles area," he said. He said he hoped the investigation would lead to more arrests.

The drug bust was announced Wednesday at a press conference at Illinois State Police District 11 headquarters in Collinsville.

In addition to Sutton, U.S. Attorney Frederick Hess and State Police Director Terrance Gainer were at the press conference.

"We've learned that this 900 pound shipment was just one in a series," Gainer said. "Several deliveries of comparable size had already been made; more were planned."

The drugs have a street value of about $41 million, Gainer said. Sutton said the shipment could have eventually supplied as many as 10,000 individuals on the East Coast.

ISP arrested the driver of the camper, Ismael Hernandez Jr., and his companion, Maria Belbo, both from Connecticut. The DEA then flew the vehicle, its cargo and passengers out east in an Air Force C-5 Galaxy to nab two more people who were awaiting the shipment in East Orange, N.J.

Arrested there were two Colombian nationals, Jorge Valesquez and Diego Tamayo. New Jersey State Police assisted on that end.

All four suspects have been charged with violating federal narcotics laws, and were in custody in New Jersey on Wednesday.

Gainer said the story began at 12:30 p.m. March 17, when a state trooper pulled over the 20-foot RV at milepost 13, one mile east of Collinsville. The vehicle was initially stopped for speeding and following too closely, he said.

Because of the driver's suspicious behavior the trooper asked for — and got — permission to search the camper.

Officers discovered 19 garbage bags, each of which contained about 48 pounds of cocaine. Each was about the size of a small suitcase.

The bags were stashed in closets, under a fold-out couch, and so much was stacked in the shower that it cracked the tub.

"This wasn't hidden in a manner that troopers were accustomed to," said Lt. Wayne Watson, acting district commander for District 11.

"But the volume was such that it would have been difficult to conceal it."

Watson said he was "extremely proud" of District 11 troopers for their part in the arrests.

"I wish I could introduce the troopers and the agents who worked this case," Gainer said. "But because of the Colombian implications and the danger to them and their families, we respect their wishes not to do that."

The largest drug bust in Illinois history occurred on Jan. 29, 1992, near Chicago when 935 pounds of cocaine were seized — only 21 pounds more than last week's bust.

Under state law, restaurants must set aside a smoke-free area but also have the option to ban all smoking.

The bill was opposed by the state Restaurant Association and tobacco groups.

•Leaves

The state legislation would ban leaf burning at all times in all Madison County cities or villages with 1,000 or more population.

Meanwhile, two different bills aimed at snuffing out smoking entirely in restaurants drew little support in two different House committees Wednesday.

The House Executive Committee rejected one bill sponsored by Rep. John Dunn, D-Decatur, to require all restaurants to ban all smoking.

Dunn argued that secondhand smoke causes thousands of cancer deaths annually to non-smokers. He also said several restaurant owners have privately told him they favor a complete ban.

Union begins picketing in wage dispute with county

Union officials locked in a protracted battle with the Madison County Board over wages and fringe benefits are stepping outside in an effort to end the dispute.

Members of American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 799 began informational picketing outside the county Administration Building in Edwardsville on Thursday to protest the County Board's rejection of a contract approved by union and county negotiators two months ago.

About 200 employees marched there, and in front of the County house between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. during their picket hours.

"Our president (Jim Goodall) was really pleased," said Peggie Assemeier, vice president of the union.

Assemeier said members of Local 799 would be meeting with a state union representative Tuesday night to discuss future action. Another march is possible, she said.

"We're not going to let up," Assemeier said. "We've started the ball rolling. We're being treated unfairly and we're not just going to lie down and be walked all over."

Another union leader said additional pickets targeting individual board members may follow.

low, similar to a protest earlier in March outside a fund-raiser sponsored by Board Member Bob Stille.

"We want to let the County Board know the action they took in their closed-door meeting was contrary to the wishes of 400 people in the AFSCME local in Madison County," said Tom McLaughlin, a spokesman for the union's state organization.

McLaughlin was referring to the board's January rejection of a contract that had been approved by county negotiators and the union membership.

The board took its action after a long closed-door meeting to discuss specifics of the contract, including proposed wage increases and a provision concerning automatic overtime for some maintenance workers.

After the vote, board members directed county negotiators to go back to the table and get concessions from the union.

Local 799 filed an unfair-labor-practice charge against the County Board, accusing it of bad-faith bargaining. Negotiations had been under way since September.

Union and county negotiators met two weeks ago with a federal mediator but failed to reach agreement. Wages appear to be the biggest stumbling block.

Union officials are calling for 3.5 percent pay hikes.

County negotiators are offering 3 percent pay increases, except for workers in the nursing and sheltered care homes, who would get no increase.

In addition, county negotiators are attempting to eliminate paid lunches, the general election holiday and certain other fringe benefits, union officials said.

McLaughlin said the local is prepared to expand the pickets to include individual board members but he would not specify who might be targeted.

Three weeks ago, a fund-raiser for a slate of candidates running for Edwardsville Township offices was picketed by about 15 Local 799 members. The fund-raiser was sponsored by Stille, who doubles as Edwardsville Township supervisor.

Stille was singled out because he is a member of the county board's Negotiating Committee and chairman of the Health Institutions Committee, which oversees operations at the nursing and sheltered care homes.

Union officials said they believe Stille was behind efforts to split the nursing and sheltered care home workers away from the local.

Spring cleaning for water mains

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

Spring cleaning has eased upon the Illinois-American Water Co. once again as it prepares to flush its water mains to clear out mineral deposits.

Wayne Schlosser, community relations manager at the company, said the ongoing maintenance program is especially important in the spring because water usage is heavier in the summer.

"This procedure flushes accumulated iron and mineral deposits," he said. "We get a better flow with this procedure. Some areas of the system are at the end of the line and this allows us to flush the impurities that collect there."

Granite City residents can expect to see their water mains flushed after Thursday. East St. Louis residents will have their water mains flushed April 1 and Belleville customers will have theirs done April 26.

"There's not that much of a difference. It's not like the system gets clogged, but it's like our annual spring cleaning," Schlosser said.

The main impact on customers will be discolored water for a short time, but if the hydrant is run for a period, the problem will disappear.

Fire hydrants, about 3,600 in the Interurban District, also will be inspected during the flushing, he said. Customers with questions about the flushing can call the Customer Service Operations Center at 1-800-422-2782.

Edgar plan clears 1st hurdle

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Jim Edgar's proposal to make the current state income tax rates permanent and to take away local governments' share has cleared its first hurdle.

On a partisan vote, Republicans controlling the Senate Executive Committee sent the bill to the full Senate Wednesday. Republicans control the Senate 32-27.

The five Democrats present voted against the bill, with most of them arguing local governments should continue to share in the higher income tax rates.

"I'd just as soon leave the money where it is, with local governments," Sen. Vince Demuzio, D-Carlinville said.

Sponsor Sen. James "Phil" R. Wood Dale, the Senate president, contended, however, that "the state needs the money more than the local governments." He said he had warned cities and counties in his area not to count on the income tax revenue.

The bill would take away about $211 million now shared with the cities and counties.

Edgar has said that money would be used to provide about $110 million more for education and about $100 million more for helping abused and neglected children.

Cities and counties have been lobbying against the change, but so far it appears Republicans are sticking with their governor.

The measure is unlikely to pass the Democrat-controlled House, however, setting up negotiations on the issue at the end of the session.

BAC advisory board criticizes trustees' plan to fine students

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

The Campus Advisory Board at Belleville Area College has expressed dismay at college trustees' recent decision to fine students $5 per credit hour for dropping classes.

The advisory board said the plan amounts to "behavior modification" in which students are being used as a psychology project by BAC trustees who approved the plan March 11.

"We're adults and my own mother doesn't tell me how to run my life," said Mickey Henson, "I resent the fact the board of trustees is trying to tell me how to make decisions."

Although the advisory board took no action, independent students have begun a petition drive to voice opposition to the penalty, said Scott Matya of Granite City.

BAC President Joseph Cipfl said the move was an attempt by the college to protect all students from those who abuse the system and deny access to classes by others.

In a one-year school period, he said 34,000 students dropped classes which amounts to 150,000 credit hours. At least 15,000 of those credit hours are from students who never showed up for classes, he said. Cipfl called that "the most troublesome group."

"That could be a course that someone else needs for graduation," he said. "We have some students who're enrolling to access financial aid and that's a double-edged sword because it also puts student financial aid into jeopardy."

Open class seats might not be a problem for colleges where enrollment is not high, but BAC literally is "busting at the seams" with students, he added.

Another 65,000 credit hours are done by students who register early and adjust their schedules before classes start; 20,000 credit hours can be attributed to instructor and student drops because a student does not fit the class or their job or medical status changes; and another 50,000 drops are done because of small enrollment in a class, Cipfl said.

The advisory board agreed soon students abusively drop classes after they have received their federal grants, but said that group makes up a minority of BAC students.

"We realize there's a problem with people dropping out, but I don't believe this will stop people who do this on a regular basis," said Matya. "I just don't think it's fair the way it happened."

Cipfl said Ted Lewis, the college's vice president for student development, is working on a specific policy that should answer many of the questions that students have raised about the fee.

There will be exceptions for emergencies, job changes and other factors that force a student to drop a class, Cipfl said, and no drop fee will be charged if a class is cancelled because of low enrollment or if two classes are combined.

"We're not unreasonable people," he said. "Our desire is to be fair, but it's a tough issue. We cannot pretend we don't have a problem. Right now we're trying to problem solve."

Corrections

A story in Wednesday's Journal incorrectly named the Rev. Henry Engelhart as one of three priests in the Belleville Diocese who resigned amid allegations of sexual misconduct.

Engelhart is in good standing with the church. He is pastor of St. Mary's Church in Shawneetown.

After the resignation of the Rev. Robert Vonnahme at St. Joseph's Parish in Elizabethtown, Engelhart was named administrator there.

The Chouteau Town Board voted March 22 to reimburse the supervisor, road commissioner and assessor 25 cents per mile rather than the current $50 per month.

An article on Page 3A of the March 25 Press-Record incorrectly reported that the clerk would also receive mileage reimbursement.

Letters

Sees God's work in solving crime

TO THE EDITOR:
This letter is written in response to your editorial, "Expert police work praised," in the March 11 Press-Record. I found the first paragraph to be correct to the best of my recollection.

However, I cannot agree with the first statement in your second paragraph, "As in all police work, luck had a lot to do with solving this crime." How much more wrong could you be?

The gentleman who lost his life according to your article was a very devoted family man as well as devoted to his church and other endeavors, undoubtedly affecting and continuing to have a great impact on many lives.

My life was one of those that he touched and I never even met him. I can relate to his line of work because, until March 9, I was employed by an unnamed local convenience store.

If the public would only realize the danger we put ourselves in each and every time we sign in on that time sheet. Not only do we sometimes fear for our lives but also the damnation we put up with by some idiotic customers.

Thank God the good customers outweigh the bad customers. Otherwise, we couldn't do a great job like we do, but that is neither here nor there.

The main purpose of this letter of protest is that luck had nothing to do with the fact arrests made in this case.

Why not give God the glory for the great police work?

If it had not been for God, none of the evidence would have been left behind, nor might the arresting officer have been given the knowledge to know that these were the suspects in that particular car. If I remember correctly, the officer pulled them over out of suspicion, not luck.

Who, may I ask, do you believe gave this officer that knowledge? If not for God, these officers as well as the Major Case Squad might never have made the arrest.

In closing, may God bless all of the people in our community and reveal to them how important it is to get close to God now. There may not be much time left on this earth, because God is coming again to get His people and the time is closer than you think.

Please prepare yourself now. Don't wait until it is too late.

Withhold pay to aid village funds

TO THE EDITOR:
I attended a finance meeting at the Village Hall in Pontoon Beach. I was ashamed at the way the mayor, treasurer and trustees laughed and joked about the village being broke and not being able to make payroll.

Some of the people in the audience were campaigning for the upcoming election, rather than coming up with short-term and long-term plans to get the village out of this mess.

One resident talked with good sense in trying to help the village out. Some people were walking out of the meeting because of the arguing and laughing between the board and audience. With this going on, nothing is solved.

The only thing I got out of this meeting was that taxes had to be raised to keep up the village. This is a long-term plan.

We need a short-term plan to help out until the long-term plan can be put in place. I don't believe that taxes of the residents in Pontoon Beach should be raised on their property.

The other tax they talked about was a utility tax, on the phone and power bills, costing all residents about a dollar a month. Home owners, mobile homes and renters pay this tax, but senior citizens don't.

I don't want taxes raised. People need to take hold of their village, come to meetings and let the mayor and trustees know what they want them to do.

My husband called the clerk's office and told them to hold his check for two months. He is the building inspector.

This is a short-term plan to help the village:

1. All employees give 50 cents to $1 an hour back to the village.
2. Building inspector, health officer, zoning administration and tourism office — hold their whole check. It calls come in for these people, pay them $10 if they go out on site, not to exceed the monthly check.
3. Mayor, trustees and treasurer should give up their whole check because it is a secondary income to them. It's a police officer's only income.

4. Clerk take some of her check, but not all, because she has to be there for incoming calls for village business.

When the village gets on its feet, the workers can be paid back. This is a lot of money. IT might be better than laying off police officers that are needed. The last thing we need is an unprotected village.

ELECTION LETTERS DEADLINE SET

Editor's note: In an effort to ensure fairness in coverage, letters to the editor regarding the upcoming municipal election will only be accepted until 5 p.m. March 31. Candidates specifically named in letters received before and printed after the deadline will be given the opportunity to respond to specific allegations. Those letters will be subject to meticulous scrutiny and no letters regarding the election will be printed in the April 18 issue.

Letters to the editor regarding topics other than the election will continue to be accepted and printed throughout the election period.

U.S. double standard on child safety

TO THE EDITOR:
Voices of praise temporarily stilled. The God-fearing congregation took their seats on modest wooden pews and awaited eagerly the word of the Lord.

Sitting near the back, my wife and I settled in and prepared ourselves to hear the pastor.

As he earnestly shared his heart, I quickly scanned the faithful array before me.

From across the room, while all were looking forward, there was one pair of eyes looking directly at me. A round little face with gentle baby features — soft brown straight hair, a mouth partially open, and wide, wondering eyes of blue.

Our little daughter, Katrina, our treasure, had a question in her gaze, and my heartfelt father's smile was the reply she so desired.

Upon seeing my response, her countenance changed from wonder to awe, and being too young to mask her joy, her whole body seemed to reflect her happiness.

This little episode brought two truths to mind. The first almost immediately, and the second upon reflection.

First of all, I thought of our response to really know that our heavenly Father is smiling at us — this, of course, a result of our looking first to Him.

The second truth, perhaps less spiritual, had to do with my daughter's comfort. Although on the other side of the church, and although her feelings for us were quite evident, she made no effort to come to us. She made no cry of displeasure.

And for being so young and inexperienced at so much, she did know love, and love's gentle touch, and it was this love that held her ever so secure.

You might call them the unsung heroes of the church. Those special women whose hearts reach far beyond their natural family. They care, they cry, they pray, they teach, they fight the fight no one sees.

One such woman held our daughter and, recently, another lady of the same type spoke to me of a heaviness on her heart. She had been listening to our most prominent local talk radio station and what she heard alarmed her. What she heard tore at the Christian soul.

The phrase she used was, "double standard."

She had heard the new attorney general's top priority was to protect children.

Also, the new surgeon general has herself stated that each child should be "wanted."

Translation: Those unwanted are aborted. The only children protected are those allowed to live.

She shared with me the "my body" issue. "No one has the right to tell me what to do with my body!" Yet the law says we can't put illegal drugs into our bodies. We can't use our body for prostitution. We can't end our life through suicide.

We are exhorted not to harm our "baby" through smoking or alcohol use, yet it is (supposedly) perfectly all right to stop the beating human heart of an unborn baby through tortuous methods used only on the silent.

She mentioned that for certain maladies it was recommended to curb the behavior that led to the infirmity (for example, heart disease). But when it comes to the subject of AIDS, the cry is for a cure with no mention of the goddess behavior that spreads the virus.

Ours is a society that changes definitions. "Human life" is subject to "Morality" is subject to the media.

"Patriotism" means the wallet and not the heart. "Loyalty" means "but for a moment." And responsibility means nothing at all.

A suggestion: Let our zealous media commentators don religious attire and continue their theology of subjective truth, and let our churches that really love God drop their tax-exempt status and boldly proclaim right from wrong.

Finally, this woman of prayer reminded me of a Soviet leader's comments that we would be overcome without the firing of a shot. And so it appears.

Yet, communism has not triumphed over us, but rather the yielding of our souls to a dark, baser nature that denies God and glorifies man.

But still you can find them, those unassuming saints that fight for the children and the family.

In the churches, in the schools, at abortion clinics, at the seats of power. Perhaps they'll never make a headline, yet, when all is revealed, how much will be owed to these who bled for their nation? Yes, how much?

Simon, Braun to review job applicants

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

A federal commission that will pare down lists of candidates for U.S. attorney, U.S. marshal and a federal judgeship in the Southern District of Illinois will have its hands full with nearly 60 applications.

Paul Simon and Carol Mosley-Braun, both Illinois senators, established the commission to get advice on who should get the posts.

David Carle, an aide to Simon, said the office had received 22 applications for the federal judgeship, 15 for the attorney slot and 20 for the marshal's position by March 25.

Applications are available through Donna Eastman in Simon's Carbondale office (457-3683). The forms must be returned by 5 p.m. April 5.

The commission will review questionnaires and select candidates for personal interviews.

Although there are no official requirements for the posts, Simon's office said each application will be evaluated on the basis of such personal and professional qualities as integrity, legal ability and law enforcement experience, judicial temperament, impartiality and management skills.

Although names of applicants have not been released, St. Clair County Board Chairman John Baricewicz said in December that he is interested in the federal judgeship.

The positions become available only once every 15 or 20 years and he said he may not get another good opportunity to apply.

Baricewicz, who is in his second term as County Board chairman, previously served as state's attorney in St. Clair County for four years.

Terry Delaney, a law enforcement officer in the area for more than 30 years, said he hopes to be named U.S. marshal in the southern district because it will be a challenge for him.

Delaney has headed a special crime task force in the St. Clair County Sheriff's Department for three years. He previously worked with the Illinois State Police, the Illinois Department of Corrections and the Washington Park Police Department.

Bill to restrict gambling on boats killed early

SPRINGFIELD — State Treasurer Patrick Quinn's push to impose restrictions on riverboat gambling operators capsized early in a Senate committee.

Vowing not to go down with the ship, Quinn said he "is not giving up on this" and would attempt to add his proposal to another bill later in the legislative session.

Quinn's proposal, largely inspired by the sale of public stock in the company that owns the Alton Belle Riverboat Casino, failed in the Senate Executive Committee Wednesday when none of the majority Republicans would vote for it.

Needing eight votes to get out of committee, the bill was supported by five Democrats on the committee, including Sen. Vince Demuzio of Carlinville, who sponsored Quinn's proposal.

There was no debate on the proposal and little testimony. Quinn repeated arguments he made in news conferences in Alton, Springfield and Chicago Tuesday, contending taxpayers should share in profits from public stock offerings from the floating casinos through a new 20 percent windfall tax.

The tax would not have applied to the stock sold last month by Argosy Gaming Co., the Alton Belle owners, but would apply to any future offerings by boats.

Quinn also argued the riverboat gambling license holders and the state Gaming Board should be barred from making any political contributions to state officials to avoid a repeat of the race-track stock scandal in the 1960s and 1970s involving bribery, indictments.

His proposal also contained a section aimed at the biggest individual shareholder in Argosy Gaming Co., Springfield businessman and Republican fund-raiser William Cellini.

It would have barred Cellini from holding a riverboat gambling license because of his partial ownership of the Renaissance Hotel in Springfield. The owners have been late on payments of a state loan used to pay for its construction.

A lobbyist for the Riverboat Gaming Council, an umbrella group to which the Alton Belle and other operating floating casinos belong, didn't bother to testify against the bill in committee Wednesday but registered as an opponent.

Hess accepts removal

U.S. Attorney Frederick Hess is taking his ouster in stride. "It's a way of life," Hess said. "When a new president takes office, he puts his own party lawyers in the U.S. attorney positions."

New Attorney General Janet Reno has asked for the resignations of Hess and 76 other Republican U.S. attorneys across the country. "I'll send my letter to the president this week," Hess said. "I'll say thanks for my 11 years as a federal prosecutor."

Hess, 51, of Belleville, was appointed by President Reagan in 1982 as U.S. attorney for the Southern District of Illinois.

"I'm cleaning out my desk and getting ready to leave," Hess said.

Hess said he will go into private law practice, probably in Belleville. "I'm job hunting," he said.

Hess heard Monday from federal sources that he may have 10 days before Reno asks him to leave his office. "I'll stick around until the president appoints an interim prosecutor," he said.

U.S. Sen. Paul Simon will send Clinton a recommendation for an attorney to replace Hess. Simon has set up a merit commission to screen applicants.

Assistant Illinois Attorney General Dennis Orsey is in the running for Hess' job.

"I'm sending my application to Simon," said Orsey, director of the attorney general's regional office in Granite City.

Hess made his mark as a tough prosecutor since 1982 in the 38 counties of the Southern District of Illinois.

Madison County State's Attorney William Haine said Hess is a "first-class prosecutor."

"He leaves a legacy as a crime fighter," Haine said. "He worked side by side with my office and police to nab drug pushers and gang leaders, and to stamp out fraud in the savings and loan industry."

Drivers' license information release may be put to halt

SPRINGFIELD — Drivers license or vehicle registration holders may be able to put the brakes on the automatic release of that information in the future.

Illinois license information is frequently used by direct-mail and other companies.

But that information can also be obtained by individuals and the results can be tragic.

In 1989 a California actress was shot in the doorway of her home by a stalker who obtained her address from that state's Division of Motor Vehicles.

"We must do all that we can to ensure that a similar tragedy doesn't occur in Illinois," Secretary of State George Ryan said. "The information we gather is collected for good reasons, but those do not include handing it over to a stranger who wants to know where a woman lives."

Ryan is asking the Legislature to adopt three changes that he said would restrict the flow of information from his office to protect Illinois license holders. By law, Ryan must release the information within 10 days to anyone who requests it. The only restriction is that the individuals are informed of those seeking the information.

Companies purchase the information in bulk for consumer information and mass mailings.

The changes proposed by Ryan would:

Prohibit the release of personal information to anyone without a "business-related reason."

Allow license holders to request that their information be withheld from companies doing mass mailings.

Edwardsville school officials want to ignore ban on prayer

Two Edwardsville School District officials are recommending the district put the Supreme Court to the test by ignoring a ban on prayer at spring graduation ceremonies. While the School Board awaits a legal opinion, Assistant Superintendent Larry Busch and Edwardsville High School Principal Gerald Rains have submitted their opinion recommending the board ignore the ruling and continue the prayers.

"They called the ruling a contemporary fashionable" decision and said the Founding Fathers would not have agreed with the Supreme Court.

Their recommendation said, "Separation of church and state never implied that God could not exist in the state. Fat chance! And it certainly did not imply that one could not, or should not, believe in God, one could not worship anywhere, one could not pray anywhere or that one who believes in God should forego their freedom of speech and remain silent."

A Supreme Court decision last summer upheld a ban on organized prayer at school functions, including the invocation and benediction at graduations. What is allowable, the ruling said, is students deciding among themselves to pray or to hold a moment of silence.

The School Board decided two weeks ago to seek legal advice on the ruling. The board is asking lawyers for advice on whether to allow students to determine what they want to do.

"Everyone has freedom of religion, but that should be outside the school. Children are impressionable; there can be intimidation."

—Judy Cromwell

to drop the prayer altogether or to proceed with prayer as before.

Busch and Rains said the Constitution's separation of church and state stipulation meant "that our government should never be controlled by a particular religion, nor should people be governed to worship in a particular sect. Our forefathers did acknowledge God. They also acknowledged that this was a Christian society."

"The schoolhouse is always a reflection of society," Busch and Rains said they respect the Supreme Court and its decisions, but "all of the restrictive decisions that have been made in the last 50 years were made because someone complained. Maybe it is time that we, who hold some of the time-honored and proven values important, complain about the loss of these rights."

Some Muslim and Buddhist high school seniors said they have no serious problem with prayer, even though some would prefer something more non-denominational such as a moment of silence.

"Since I'm not really a Christian, I wish they would address everything of all religions," said Cecilia Chang who immigrated from Taiwan. "What I'd like to see is their saying a blessing for the future, since we've come so far."

Chang said she believes in a Chinese form of Buddhism. If clergy delivered a sermon, she said, "I would feel I was shut out, although I'm not going to stand up and walk out."

Tara Bhuthimethee, a Thai Buddhist, said the prayer should be left in.

"Yes, I think they should definitely leave it in," she said. "It's a tradition. I think it is kind of nice, I'm a Buddhist. It's not detrimental to us. They're blessing us. It's a good thing."

Judy Cromwell, an attorney and assistant director of the St. Louis chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, said prayers belong in church and the home but not in the school.

"Everyone has freedom of religion," Cromwell said, "but that should be outside the school. Children are impressionable; there can be intimidation. The ruling was from a religious, conservative court. Imagine if it had been from a liberal one. There is no question about what they're saying."

ELECT DEMOCRAT

DAN MCGUIRE
FOR
MAYOR

"I believe a fresh approach, with no previous political ties, expressing new ideas and offering alternative solutions to old problems can make our city a better place to live."

— PLATFORM —

OPEN DOOR POLICY: Believing government is for the people, Dan McGuire will institute an Open Door Policy. That is, one day a month, the Mayor's office will be open to the public to voice their concern or opinion on any given issue. This will be an open forum in which the everyday citizen may speak directly to the Mayor.

YOUTH: Dan McGuire seeks to insure that our teenagers will have a safe place to socialize. A Drug and Alcohol Free Teen Center is one way to accomplish this. Creating a safe place, with rewarding activities, will go far in alleviating many of the social problems of our youth today.

EDUCATION: This is an issue of prime importance to Dan McGuire. Seeking to improve all levels of education, he plans to institute new ways to generate revenue for our school systems. He especially wants to create a fund that will be distributed to needy Granite City students seeking an Associate Degree at our local college. This fund will be completely subsidized by monies outside the tax dollars allocated for education. Furthermore, the money collected, will be invested in local banks.

DISCOVERY HOUSE CONCEPT: Every year thousands of Illinois dollars are spent for entertainment and education across the river, in Missouri. Both Madison and St. Clair county school district conduct field trips to places like "The Magic House" in Kirkwood, Missouri. These funds would be better spent in our own community. By developing similar concept in Granite City, to be called "The Discovery House," Dan McGuire will have a program that will generate additional city revenue, employ local students, and the profits will be invested in the community for his Educational Aid package.

JOBS: In order to maintain, and improve our productive community, quality employment needs to be created. Dan McGuire will diligently pursue job growth in our city. Offering incentives, and showcasing the skilled labor force available in our town, he will attract industry that will provide high income positions for residents, and an improved base for our city.

SENIOR CITIZENS: Dan McGuire is concerned with the welfare of our senior citizens. Conscious of their limited income, he plans to implement economic assistance in reduced taxes for selected city services. He plans to give back a little of what they have given the city throughout their lives.

POLICE AND FIRE CHIEF SELECTION SYSTEM: Prior administrations have chosen their Police and Fire Chiefs by political patronage. Dan McGuire, seeking to remove politics from something as valuable to the community as the head of these departments, will institute the following changes in the selection process: A committee will be formed from the ranks of both the Police and Fire Departments. They will make a number of recommendations. A written exam will be given, there will be an oral exam, and the Mayor with the committee will reach a consensus on the new Chief.

ETICAM: Dan McGuire feels as "most Granite City residents do: "We do not want a toxic waste plant in our city!" He stands firm on this issue and takes complete responsibility for the stand.

AMBULANCE SERVICE: The Granite City Police and Fire Departments do not favor a change to outside contracted ambulance service, and neither do the residents of Granite City. Dan McGuire is in touch with the people on this issue, and feels that an outside ambulance service would not be in the best interest of the city.

ABANDONED BUILDINGS: Old, dilapidated buildings and homes in our city need some attention. Some need to be torn down, others could be saved and even made attractive. Repairs and renovation of these salvageable buildings can be accomplished in a number of ways. Many cities have offered low interest loans; others have utilized contract for deeds with time constraints placed on repair time. What is really needed is a Mayor who will actively seek solutions to these problems. Dan McGuire will be that kind of Mayor.

WELFARE: Training welfare recipients of the city to live productive lives is another goal of Dan McGuire. Working side-by-side with the State, utilizing available federal funds, McGuire plans to have those who have become dependent of the Welfare System retrained, so they can become self-sufficient.

LEAF PROBLEMS: By conducting personal door to door surveys, Dan McGuire has inquired what the people desire to be done with their leaves. He proposes a compromise with the EPA's rulings, since the general consensus is that people wish to burn their leaves. He would establish two weekends in November and December to burn leaves.

SEMC continues tradition of honoring hospital associates

Each day, someone is touched by the kindness of one of the associates at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Instead of allowing these little-known accomplishments to pass into oblivion, SEMC acknowledges the efforts of these individuals through the Associate of the Year Award.

The award, sponsored by the owners of Glik Stores, recognizes "outstanding performance of duty, dependability, efficiency, helpfulness, and other activities that reflect the spirit and enhance the image of SEMC." It includes a $1,000 cash prize donated by the Glik family.

According to Joe Glik, chief executive officer of Glik Stores, his family has supported the work at St. Elizabeth for more than 60 years.

"My father, Morris Glik, donated a room to the hospital in the 1930s, and I served on the lay Advisory Board for 30 years," he explained. "Working with St. Elizabeth Medical Center has given me a lot of satisfaction, and I want my children to share in that satisfaction."

Establishing the award program assured that the family will have an active involvement with SEMC in future years, he said.

In the 12 years the award has been offered, more than 200 associates have been nominated for the honor.

Bob Glik, Joe's son and vice president of advertising for Glik Stores, is involved in choosing the Associate of the Year and presenting the award at the annual awards dinner.

"I have been involved in the Associate of the Year Award since its inception. I look forward to the award meetings and dinner each year," he said.

"I'm always impressed with the high degree of professionalism and compassion the associates at St. Elizabeth exhibit. These characteristics are an inspiration to me over the years as I try to display the same attributes at my business."

Bob Turck, a SEMC social worker, was the first Associate of the Year, for 1981. Former associate Tony Elliot, then a driver for Mobile Meals, won the award for 1982. Claudine McLaughlin, a nurse aide on 3-Doctors, was Associate of the Year for 1983.

The following two years, registered nurses were honored, Martha Burnett of Surgette in 1984 and Marianne Hicks of Radiology in 1985.

Two associates shared the honor in 1986 — Kathy McKay, correspondence specialist in Medical Records, and Shaky Seligman, a senior lead technician in Radiology. Barbara Booth, a physical therapist in Physical Therapy, was Associate of the Year for 1987.

Another dual award was presented in 1988 to Albert McDonald of Plant Engineering and Mary Kay Heagy-Metz, administrative secretary. Rhonda McDowell of Laboratory Services was Associate of the Year for 1989.

Posthumously, Kathy Trischhaber of Radiology and Mike Pryor of Respiratory Therapy were named Associates of the Year for 1990.

The latest Associate of the Year was Linda McMurray, patient transporter in Radiology.

These winners were nominated for embodying the philosophy of caring that the medical center is founded on and for their dedication to SEMC.

"It is always an emotional time for me during the awards dinners, when the Associate of the Year Award is presented," said Sister Mary Thomas, chairman of the board at SEMC.

"I am always proud of our associates and, when one of them is given a special honor, I am especially pleased."

Nominations for 1992 are being accepted. Forms are available through the SEMC Public Relations Department between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, or by calling 798-3157. The deadline for returning nomination forms is April 5.

Seminar on coping with stress to begin April 5

"You can learn to take control of stress before it takes control of your health," according to Bob Turck, a licensed clinical social worker and member of the Social Work Department at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

"If stress is the spice of life, is your life overseasoned? SEMC will present a four-part Stress Seminar in April to help you learn healthier ways to cope with everyday nagging problems of life."

will take part in actual relaxation training with positive physical and psychological results.

Cost for the four-part seminar and materials is $50 per person. Participants receive a variety of materials to use in managing daily stress.

To register, persons may call the SEMC Social Work Department at 798-3018. Enrollment is limited, so the advice is to register as soon as possible. The deadline for registration is Wednesday, March 31.

Gliks are part of St. Elizabeth 'family'

For more than 60 years, the Glik family has encouraged St. Elizabeth Medical Center in its mission of caring for the community.

"We are so grateful to the Glik family, and especially to Joe Glik for initiating this SEMC Associate of the Year award," said Sister Mary Thomas, chairman of the hospital's governing board.

The Gliks value their personal connection with SEMC, according to Bob Glik, vice president of advertising for Glik Stores.

"A family-owned business the size of ours is a rarity in today's world," Glik said. "One of the keys to our success is a 'hands-on' approach that allows us to get involved in all aspects of our business."

"Due to the demands of work, family and business become intertwined and the reputation of our stores also becomes our reputation. Giving and being active in St. Elizabeth gives us the opportunity to make that personal connection with a key institution in the Tri Cities community and enhance our image in the community."

To select the top associate of the year, Glik works closely with a committee of area residents.

Over the years, committee members have included Connie Crumley, George and Hazel Smith, the Schuler, Nancy Sanders-Miles, Helen Favier, Jo

Meyer, Elinor Null, Jim Reidelberger, Margaret Arnold, Henry Baucum, Myra Parrish and Bobbie Booker.

They meet and review applications submitted by associates, volunteers, medical staff members, and community members. The interviews are conducted with the nominees before a final decision is made.

"Each and every individual who has served on my committee has found the experience rewarding and educational," Glik said.

"One of the side aspects of participating in the award process is the amount learned, by myself and my committee members, about St. Elizabeth's and what it provides for our community."

Early retirement: Are you ready?

The buzzword of business these days is "downsizing." Corporations are looking to become "lean and mean," often by trimming payrolls through early-retirement programs. But when your employer decides to downsize by offering you an incentive to retire early, your decisions become "upsize."

Should you take the money and run, or should you hold out for something better?

The analysis of this problem requires that you sift through two sets of questions, one financial and the other non-financial.

Dollars and cents.

The first set of questions forces you to put pencil to paper and do some calculations. Consider the following factors:

- Does the package include a continuation of group health benefits?

- If not, you will have the right under federal law to continue that coverage for up to 18 months — but only if you pay the premium yourself.

- Is your employer offering you a severance benefit? If so, how much? When will it be payable, and how will that affect your taxes?

- Will the employer make supplemental payments to you each month until you reach age 62 and qualify for Social Security?

- Do the incentives include credit for additional years of service under the company's pension plan? If so, how much will your monthly check increase as a result?

- Do your retirement plans offer you some flexibility in the manner you receive distributions? Do you have the choice of taking a lump sum, an annuity, or perhaps leaving your money in the plan and letting it grow tax deferred?

- How much less of a monthly benefit will you receive if you retire early than if you work to normal retirement age?

- What do you anticipate your living expenses will be? Will you be able to get by for now — and for the next 20 to 30 years?

Dollars and sense.

Calculating and weighing the numbers is the easy part of your decision.

Probing your feelings about retirement may be more difficult. Consider the following points and how they may affect your decision:

- How do you feel about retiring? Does the idea of leisure time appeal to you? Or are you a Type A personality who needs to work?

- What do you think will happen if you don't take the company's offer? Will you be laid off or phased out in time?

- What about the company? Is it in financial difficulty? Will it be around long enough for you to retire?

- Will you have to continue working? Will you be able to find other work in your field?

- If not, do you have transferable skills that can be used in another career?

- Are you willing to move in order to keep working?

- What are your chances of negotiating a better deal than the one you have been offered? This may depend on whether the company has a history of being flexible, or whether it has always adopted a "take it or leave it" attitude.

There is no universal answer as to whether or not to accept an early-retirement package.

Some will identify so strongly with their jobs that it would take wild horses to drag them away; others are willing to walk away if the dollars are even remotely in their favor.

If you are not facing the early-retirement dilemma right now, consider whether you might at some time in the future, and ask yourself one more question: How much planning have you done?

Job security is no longer a certain thing, but fear of that uncertainty is no excuse for not mapping out a plan.

Instead, it should be a spur to get your finances and retirement planning in order.

MEMORIAL'S OUTPATIENT SURGERY CENTER... "UNCOMMON" CARING, BUT NOT IN A "COMMON" AREA.

Outpatient surgery has many advantages. But spending time in a large "shared" or "common" room close to other patients before and after surgery isn't one of them — particularly when you may not be at your best or when you need to discuss your personal medical concerns with your physician or nurse.

From patient evaluations of our services, they told us privacy is an important priority. We listened. Memorial's Outpatient Surgery Center sets new standards for others to follow by providing personalized care by exceptional nursing professionals in our 28 private patient areas — each with a TV and room for family members to stay with you before and after surgery.

They also told us to pay attention to other important things, like prompt registration, a separate family waiting area, adjacent parking and a drive-up entrance. We did. Small conveniences, perhaps, but aren't these what we notice most?

When your physician recommends outpatient surgery — from minor to the most complex procedures — ask that it be performed at Memorial's Outpatient Surgery Center — where personalized caring, privacy, and convenience are "common."

Insurance firms bear brunt of stormy season

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

Insurance industry officials breathed a collective sigh of relief when the clock finally — mercifully — ran out on 1992.

The $22.8 billion in insured losses was three times higher than the previous record, the $7.6 billion paid out in 1989, the year of Hurricane Hugo and the San Francisco earthquake.

An eye-opening statistic from 1992: Property-and-casualty insurers paid out $1.56 for every $1 in premiums they collected.

"You don't see many happy faces" among industry executives, says Sean Mooney, economist for the Insurance Information Institute, New York.

Those unhappy faces could spread to homeowners. Losses of such magnitude "couldn't help but have an indirect impact" on premiums paid by homeowners here and elsewhere, says Marvin Bleivins, of State Farm Insurance.

Indeed, A.M. Best, the nation's leading insurance rating firm, has predicted premium increases approaching 10 percent. And that was before last month's Storm of the Century dumped record snowfall from Florida to Maine, resulting in $800 million in insured damage.

Big losses alone don't necessarily require rate increases, says Bleivins, who oversees State Farm's homeowners' policies from State Farm's regional headquarters in Columbia. Prudent insurers have funds set aside to handle catastrophes, he adds.

The problem in 1992 was the sheer magnitude of catastrophe. Hurricane Andrew devastated south Florida to the tune of $15 billion. Hurricane Iniki cost insurers $1.8 billion, the Los Angeles riots $775 million; the flooding of downtown Chicago $300 million. Toss in several California earthquakes, a worse-than-usual hail and tornado season in the Midwest, and a nasty wind and rain storm that crippled New York City's subway system in December, and insured damage totaled $22.8 billion.

Here's how 1992 affected the nation's largest insurer, State Farm: Hurricane Andrew losses totaled $3.7 billion, leading the company to post an overall loss of $1.2 billion, the insurer's first red ink in 23 years.

State Farm had to tap its auto insurance fund to help cover property-and-casualty losses. The biggest fund of rebuilding those reserves will fall on those in hurricane zones. The damage caused by Andrew and Iniki will be reflected in homeowners' rates for 20 to 30 years, industry executives say.

The biggest factor influencing premium levels is local or statewide experience. "You have to base your rates on your exposure," Bleivins says. Which means losses due to hail, tornadoes and Midwestern earthquakes are more important to St. Louis homeowners' insurance rates than hurricanes, says Mooney, the economist.

Still, Andrew & Co. could affect premiums here, says David Chartrand, a Kansas City-based spokesman for the Insurance Information Institute. Rebuilding in Florida has claimed a lot of building materials; local shortages have led to higher repair prices in St. Louis, which could push rates higher.

Insurance executives offer two more ways the catastrophes of 1992 could boost homeowners' insurance premiums here.

First, the cost of reinsurance is climbing. Think of reinsurance as an insurance policy for insurers. When an insurance company has a loss, it typically pays the first $25 million, skin to the deductible on a homeowners' policy, the reinsurer pays the remainder.

And the 1992 losses follow five years of red ink in the property-and-casualty field. In fact, homeowners policies haven't returned an adequate profit since 1978, says Rhonda Ruch, a spokeswoman for A.M. Best.

5th grader wins geography bee

Holy Family School participated in the nationwide geography bee for its third year.

The competition was open to 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th grade students on a voluntary basis.

There were 22 students initially competing from the four grades: Michael Angle, Bobby Bosslet, Sean Boyer, Chris Burtge, Sarah Carmody, Lynda Deloney, Melea Dickerman, Rosanna Gordon, Aaron Holt, Brian Hopkins, Kiki Huff, Robert Lampitt, Ryan Lux, David Marck, Zeb Moore, Craig Mooshegan, Elizabeth Mushill, Andy Ronk, Ryan Trobaugh, and Sarah Turek.

Diana Prazma, facilitator of the geography bee and the school's science teacher, gave the students a 50-question test pertaining to the United States, North America and the physical properties of geography.

From the results, her eight semi-finalists advanced to the second place of competition.

Those advancing were Robert Lampitt, Kiki Huff, Elizabeth Mushill, David Marck, Ryan Trobaugh, Andy Ronk, Mike Angle, and Brian Hopkins.

2nd test of 40 questions was on the cultural, economic, and plant and animal aspects of the geography realm from all over the world. The results produced the three finalists, Robert Lampitt, 8th grade; Elizabeth Mushill, 5th grade; and David Marck, 7th grade. The three then were given an oral test by Diana Prazma.

The 1993 school champion was Elizabeth Mushill; 2nd place went to Lampitt; and Marck finished 3rd.

Elizabeth Mushill was administered the official test for the Geography Bee competition that has been sent to Washington, D.C.

The results will not be known until later.

Based on this test, she could advance to state competition at Illinois State University. That competition is scheduled to take place on April 2.

Tips from the Frank's Experts on Container Gardening When Space is at a Premium

FRANK'S NURSERY & CRAFTS

Where Beautiful Things Begin

Are you missing out on the dazzling beauty of flowers and the fresh taste of home-grown veggies simply because you feel you don't have enough room for a garden? Well, Frank's has great news! Gardening is not something reserved only for those surrounded by the wide-open spaces!

You really don't need much space at all to enjoy a garden. All you have to do is use a little imagination and make good use of the space that's available.

These days, more and more people are making their homes in apartments and condos. Space is usually at a premium, as you well know. Even owners of conventional houses can feel the pinch. Lot sizes are smaller, pools, decks, swing sets, sandboxes and a host of other leisure-time necessities compete for the valuable space.

How is it possible to plant a garden under such crowded conditions?
Container gardening! Containers are available at Frank's to fit almost anywhere. And they offer several advantages. You don't have to overcome problems with soil, because you choose the potting mix. You can move plants in and out of the home. Weeds are easier to control in containers than they are in the yard.

Containers can be placed on and around decks, patios, swimming pools, porches, or just about anywhere else. With the wide variety of styles, sizes and colors to choose from, you can find one to blend with any decor.

If you're an apartment dweller and have a balcony, you have space for a container garden! But before heading to Frank's with visions of balcony beauty, head to the apartment office and find out if there are any restrictions. A garden on the balcony may sound like a great idea, but might not be as appealing to the landlord.

What kinds of containers can you use? Just about anything. You can buy them or make your own. Hanging baskets, window boxes, whiskey barrels, clay, plastic or ceramic pots can be used.

The list goes on and on. Some people get creative and use old tires, wheelbarrows and fish tanks.

You're probably wondering what can be planted in containers. Many of the same things you'd plant in a conventional garden! Small trees, herbs, annuals, perennials, even a long list of vegetables can all be enjoyed in containers.

Trellises and cages can be put to good use also. Instead of letting vining crops spread out, try growing them upright, supported by trellises or cages. If tomatoes and cucumbers, for example, are trained to grow up instead of out, you'll have more room for other plants.

For a complete list of what types of plants can be planted in containers and more information on doing so, stop by Frank's and pick up the free booklet "Patio Garden, Small Spaces."

MEMORIAL'S OUTPATIENT SURGERY CENTER... ...GOING BEYOND WHAT'S EXPECTED.

Most outpatient surgery centers can offer a shorter, less expensive stay. But at Memorial's Outpatient Surgery Center, that's just the beginning.

Memorial does things differently - and, we think, better.

Most outpatient surgery facilities group patients in a large "shared" room close to other patients for their care before and after surgery - allowing little or no privacy when you need to discuss personal medical concerns with your physician or nurse. Memorial's Outpatient Surgery Center sets new standards for others to follow by providing you with personalized care by exceptional nursing professionals in our 28 private areas - each with a TV and room for a family members to stay with you before and after surgery.

We've also paid attention to other things you told us were important...such as prompt registration, a separate family waiting area, convenient adjacent parking and a drive-up entrance. Small conveniences, perhaps, but aren't these what we notice most?

When your physician recommends outpatient surgery, ask that it be performed at Memorial's Outpatient Surgery Center - where personalized caring, privacy, and convenience go beyond what's expected.

Youngsters often commit violent crimes

A group of youths clad in identical blue sweats and lighter blue cotton shirts noisily wait for an afternoon class to begin. The group of mostly white males could easily be mistaken for a handful of freshmen at any high school. The only difference would be that among this group is a 14-year-old who allegedly battered and robbed an elderly man, two 13-year-olds charged as adults in the robbery and slaying of a convenience store clerk, and a 13- and 14-year-old each accused of rape.

These youthful offenders were in the population of 20 held at the Madison County Juvenile Detention Home's Haller House in mid-March.

"Not exactly your average bunch of adolescents," said Steve Bowker, superintendent of Haller House.

Bowker said many people throughout Madison County aren't aware of the violent crimes being committed by youngsters today. Because of the violence, first-time offenders are either quickly released from Haller House or they are never sent there at all.

"It's really frustrating for some residents in the community," Bowker said. "A kid does a burglary in your neighborhood and they're out a number of hours. But it's scary to me to think that we've got this number of kids committing rapes and assaults."

Bowker said the average stay at Haller House is 18 days.

Bowker said all but two of the 20 youths held there earlier this month were white. All except four were male and more than half of them had been detained there before.

Last year 433 juvenile offenders who had committed 907 offenses were kept at Haller House.

Center

Another hazard is the lack of automatic doorlocks on the 21 rooms where the young offenders are housed or on the doors to each of the four wings housing the rooms.

The doors have to be individually opened with a key.

In a fire, that could kill kids and staff," Bowker said.

In the building's basement — where classrooms and a recreation area are located — there are more violations. Two restrooms in the classroom area are now storage areas, having too many plumbing problems to be used.

Without a new or an improved building, Madison County may have to send its youthful offenders elsewhere.

"We average 15 kids each day just for Madison County," Bowker said. "I doubt we could find 15 beds to house our kids."

Madison County also has working agreements with 31 counties to take in their delinquents at $75 per day.

The $300,000 this brings in annually provides about one-third of the detention home budget.

"Sure, I'd like to get out of the business," Bowker said. "But that is money the county saves. It's expenses we have to pay for anyway."

The most Madison County offenders ever held there at once was 29 in a facility that can hold a maximum of 25. In 1992, the average for all offenders was 22.

Outside the Cook County area, Illinois has only 318 beds to serve 101 counties, Bowker said.

Putting the juvenile offenders elsewhere would also mean daily fees paid to the county that takes them, and travel expenses back and forth for court appearances.

"With kids scattered all over the state — logistically, we're talking about a mind boggle," Bowker said.

Eagles Auxiliary initiates 3

At the regular meeting of Eagles Auxiliary 1126, three candidates were initiated: Kathy Waltermann, Tina Carpenter and Judy Whitaker.

The initiation team was President Joanna Spencer, Junior Past President Del Deloney, Vice-President Barbara Modrusic, Chaplain Ann Pates, and Conductor Vera Johnson. Each new member was presented with her membership card and a book of the Eagles Auxiliary rules and regulations.

An investigation was held on one candidate, and one application for membership was read by Secretary Vincine Zerlan.

Vera Johnson, chairman of the state Heart Fund, gave a favorable report on the recent chicken and dumplings dinner held at the Eagles Home, and Nina Jackson also gave a report on the Jimmie Durante Children's Fund drive.

The auxiliary will sponsor a chicken and soda and beer dance at the Eagles Home on May 1, with proceeds to go to the Ways and Means Fund.

A pot luck dinner to celebrate Auxiliary Mother Billie Schuler's birthday is planned for 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 13, with a meeting at 8 p.m. Members are asked to bring desserts.

Attendance prizes were awarded to Kathleen Benda and Florence Hagnauer.

A luncheon was served by hostesses Del Deloney, Kathleen Benda and Billie Schuler.

Omicron Master Chapter meets

President Bea Brackett called the Omicron Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi to order Jan. 20 in the home of Alice Konieczny in Collinsville.

Bea Brackett read the new projects to be sponsored by the international grants and a vote was taken. The financial statement for 1992 was received from international.

Permit to confer degrees was mailed to Delores Dorich. The minutes read by Joyce Alexander were approved.

Imogene Forrest commented on the acknowledgment from the Salvation Army for the most recent contribution. Several thank you notes were received from individuals who had been recipients of Christmas cookies.

Evelyn Tolliver announced that the trip to Kansas City in March was postponed. Items for the scrapbook were collected by Lora Lombardi.

A phone call from Lucille Voyles, sponsor, was enjoyed. Ariene Haldeman will submit the rewritten bylaws to international for approval.

Treasurer Pat Tsigalaroff will change bank account status as soon as possible. Bea Brackett conducted the monthly review of the book of Beta Sigma Phi.

Introduced by Juanita Calve, Bea also gave the program entitled, "The Last Thousand Years at a Glance." Important dates and events were mentioned, as well as changes in religion, life expectancy, population, physical features and cultural arts.

The hostess served a variety of desserts.

Cloverview Garden Club meets

The Cloverview Garden Club held its February meeting at Ravanelli's restaurant. Hostess was Louise Sedlack and a dessert luncheon was served by the group. Roll call was "Name Your Favorite Vine."

There were nine members present: Marlene Brokaw, Lois Cruse, Gladys Gandoria, Linda Irwin, Cel Johnson, Ruth Knapp, Louise Sedlack, Marge O'Neill and Veronica Williamson.

The theme for 1993-94 will include a study of birds. Each member will give a lesson on favorite bird.

On Arbor Day the outdoor classroom superintendent will plant a dogwood tree at Lake School.

Three young people have entered into the poster contest.

Gladys Gandoria and Louise Sedlack were honored. They have been members 20 years, and received recognition from the National Council of State Garden Clubs of Illinois.

The program study, "Containers and Keeping Flowers Fresh," was given by Marlene Brokaw. She brought several containers to display, showing that a black vase definitely enhances the brilliance of the flower it contains. A grapevine basket is the perfect container for an American garden design. A low open bowl has many uses. Pre-conditioning your flowers is vital, if you want to insure the flowers long life.

Ask Dr. Rapoff
Dear Dr. Rapoff, What is chiropractic and what do you do?
Dear H.C.,

Chiropractic is a non-surgical, drugless approach to promoting good health. Chiropractors are trained physicians who use a "hands on" technique in order to relieve many musculoskeletal conditions. It may be easier to understand by the following explanation: First, the brain constantly produces electrical impulses of nerve energy which provides messages to all muscles and organs of the body. These messages are sent through the spinal cord and nerves which extend through openings between the bones of the spine (vertebrae). Since these nerves are vital to the muscles and organs functioning properly, an interruption in the transmission of these messages can cause a malfunction. Sometime misaligned vertebrae can interfere with or "pinch" the nerve and cause pain and improper function of the muscles or organs.

A chiropractor gently manipulates (adjusts) the misaligned vertebrae back into proper position thereby relieving the interference. The normal flow of energy is then achieved. I hope this explanation is helpful in your understanding of the chiropractic science. If I can be of further help to you, please let me know.

On the ropes, Warrior reserves rebound strongly

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

After going through five hitless Friday night, it appeared the Granite City baseball team's second unit was on the brink of beginning the year on an embarrassing note.

East Moline pitcher Abel Zertuche's spell, however, ended in the sixth, when Sean Lakatos snatched a double into the left-center gap and Don Harris followed with a bloop single to right field. Lakatos eventually scored, and the Warriors trailed 1-0 heading into the seventh inning.

When Jason Black opened the final inning with a single and Matt Stinson walked, it looked as if the Warrior reserves could take advantage of a game-worn Zertuche and pull-out a win. But Zertuche somehow had enough steam to retire Scott Nemeth on a strikeout, Corey Dickerson on a groundout and Darren Mosby on a strikeout.

Still, Granite City coach Bob Stegemeier was pleased with his team's rally. Despite having little varsity experience, the Warriors fared well against East Moline.

"We wanted to see the underclassmen play, and they battled back," Stegemeier said. "They didn't quit. We found out some things tonight."

One thing Stegemeier discovered was the possible depth of his pitching staff. After watching Ben Hicks and Brent Dippel combine on a three-hitter in the first game, Stegemeier started Jeff Ridenour and used Dickerson in relief.

After giving up a run on two hard-hit doubles in the first inning, Ridenour settled down and fell victim to his team's defense in the fourth inning.

East Moline scored two unearned runs.

Dickerson took over in the fifth and looked sharp. Dickerson recorded six strikeouts in the final three innings. He struck out the side in the sixth.

"Our pitching was real good in the second game," Stegemeier said. "It might have even been better than the first game, and (East Moline) played the same players."

"I thought Ridenour threw OK. He threw hard. Dickerson came in and did a good job. He threw strikes with good velocity."

Both could play important roles for the Warriors as the season goes on. Ridenour, a junior, is one of the team's hardest throwers. Dickerson is also a junior.

"We have to look at some people right now, and so far we're happy," Stegemeier said.

Warriors earn split against East Moline

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

The Warrior baseball team threatened to sweep but came up just short, earning a doubleheader split Friday night at home against East Moline to begin the season.

Led by the pitching efforts of seniors Ben Hicks and Brent Dippel, the Warriors shut down the Panthers 8-1 in the first game.

Coach Bob Stegemeier started his reserve team in the second game, and after falling behind 3-0, the Warriors rallied in the final two innings to make it a close affair against East Moline pitcher Abel Zertuche. The Warriors lost 3-1.

Stegemeier said he was pleased with the split, adding he was more concerned with evaluating his players at this point in the season.

"It turned out to be a nice evening," Stegemeier said. "I'm not upset with splitting. I like what I see so far. I like the looks of our seniors."

Sporting a senior-dominated lineup in the first game, the Warriors scored six runs in the first three innings after falling behind 1-0 in the top of the first on an unearned run. Zertuche singled up the middle off Hicks, stole second and scored when Chad Dooley got past third baseman Bob Wilson.

The Warriors quickly came back to tie the score in the bottom of the first.

Florida: Land of baseball, few complaints

ST. PETERSBURG — The man next door had a long conversation with his soon-to-be ex-wife last night. It was no big deal. Except the two voices were rather loud ... and he was the only one in the room.

Welcome to Florida. Grab a handful of sun block, make a reservation at Ben's Steak House, and stay a while.

Strange things happen here. Usually, we blame the sun. How else to explain the Florida Sun Coast Dome?

But the sun has been AWOL this winter and spring. Don't blame it for alligator wrestling, the way Geronimo Pena plays second base (it would be mediocre if the intensity level was turned up about six clicks), or the fact that googie-eyed rock 'n' roller Joe Walsh last week played the outfield in an old-timers all-star game that featured half a dozen Hall of Famers.

The sun and the heat are off the hook for that weirdness. So maybe it's the tides. Or the palm trees. Or the fact that 95 percent of the population here is retired and every single one of them drives at approximately the same speed you and I parallel park.

Or, maybe, it's just Florida. Not that anyone is complaining. Not really. Except maybe the guy next door. Or was that his wife?

There are no complaints from baseball fans here. Except for a gray day here and a drizzle there, what's to complain about?

Certainly not the baseball. Except for the seven teams that train in Arizona, everybody is here, or passes through here during almost any 10-day period. It's the only chance St. Louis fans have to see George Brett, Jose Canseco, Cecil Fielder, Frank Thomas, Nolan Ryan, Kirby Puckett, etc. Hall of Fame here, or passes through here during almost any 10-day period. Just the other day, Ozzie Smith, Cal Ripken, and Barry Larkin all played shortstop at Al Lang Stadium within a 24-hour period. So did Alfredo Griffin. Three out of four ain't bad.

Three out of four seems to be the operative ratio here. That, for example, is approximately

Warriors —

tom of the inning. Senior spark-plug Jason Maxfield singled, stole second, reached third on a groundout and scored on a wild pitch. Granite City then took advantage of four walks by East Moline starter Tyson Meyer in the second inning and scored four runs.

The Warriors added another run in the third off reliever Jeremy Troutwine and two more in the sixth. Second baseman Marc Patton hit a two-run single in the sixth, driving in Mark Winfield and Maxfield.

But it was the Warrior pitching that stood out the most. Hicks worked five strong innings before giving way to Dippel, who struggled at times but worked out of several jams to record a save.

"The pitching was good," Stegemeier said. "Our pitchers haven't thrown much this year, especially to hitters. Hicks was impressive. Dippel did a good job. They had some great plays behind them."

Granite City made several outstanding defensive plays. Maxfield got the Warriors off to a good start by making a sliding catch in the first to end East Moline's rally.

Patton made a sparkling play in the infield in the second inning, robbing East Moline's Dave Cortez of a single through the middle.

Stegemeier had only one concern, which was fairly minor: the Warriors' offense. They managed just five hits against East Moline. The Warriors did not start hitting the ball hard until the sixth, when Winfield, Maxfield and Patton came through with consecutive singles.

"The first game, we didn't swing the bats real well," Stegemeier said. "But that's to be expected at this time of year. Our hitting will come. It's not something I'm concerned about yet."

In the nightcap, the Warriors gave up two unearned runs in the fourth inning and spent most of the game trying to come back. They scored one run in the sixth and had runners on first and second in the seventh before Zertuche escaped the jam with a groundout and a strikeout.

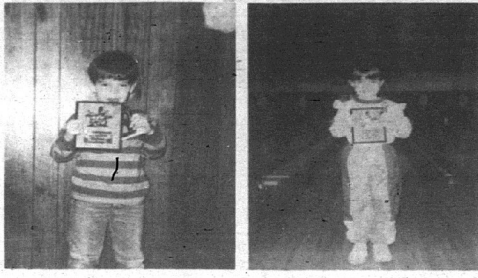

Stegemeier was simply pleased to get two games in. While most of the area's teams had to cancel games this week because of the weather, the Warriors' field held up well.

Stegemeier said the firm condition of the diamond was the result of a full day of work. School was not in session Friday.

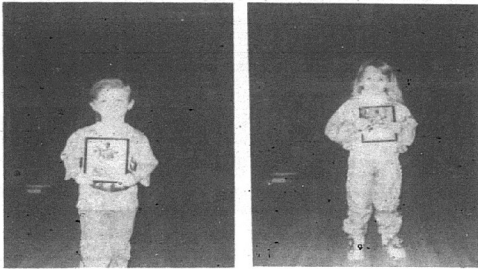

"We were here at 7:30 in the morning, and the kids got here at 11 and also worked on it," Stegemeier said. "It's an amazing shape."

It needed to be, The Warriors were scheduled to come right back Saturday with a double-header against Washington.

Granite City's next game is Wednesday at Wood River.

Florida

the percentage of ground balls seen seems to notice as they roll through the right side of the Cardinals' infield. It also is the approximate ratio of baseball teams smart enough to leave well enough alone when it comes to their spring training facilities. Scattered up and down here on the west coast of Florida are a couple ancient and honorable parks that make you wish spring training and vacation lasted forever. Al Lang here, Joker Marchant Stadium (Detroit Tigers) in Lakeland, and the rebuilt McKean Field (Pittsburgh Pirates) in Bradenton are everything and anything you could ask for. Tradition, comfort, style.

Al Lang — there have been three parks at the same site in the last 55 years — is not quite the same now that the roll-burger (don't ask) is dead and singing vendor Tommy Walton is on the DL, but with saboteurs bobbing in the Tampa Bay barely 50 yards from third base and with two teams (the Cardinals and the Baltimore Orioles) using it as home base, it is the busiest and prettiest park in Florida.

Regional champ — Lori Woodfork, a member of the Madison High School girls basketball team, advanced from the IHSAA Class A Regional tournament at Duplo to sectional competition in the Country Companies 3-point contest. Woodfork advanced from a field of 20 players and then placed fifth in a field of 16 at the Carrollton Sectional. Woodfork's coach is Johnna Wells.

Similar claims fall flat at the newer parks. Take Plant City (Cincinnati Reds), please. Vech. The exception, almost, is Grant Field in Dunedin. Rebuilt from the ground up — and renamed Dunedin Stadium at Grant Field — the Toronto Blue Jays have a new ballpark that's not terrible at all — except the place is lousy with Canadians. Say this for Canadians, though: They love their Blue Jays. The Blue Jays sold out seven of their first eight home dates this spring. The Cardinals are running at nearly the same clip. Attendance is nearly 5,200 per game or 90 percent of capacity. And that's without sunshine, roll-o-burgers and baseball-mad Canadians. And with Geronimo Pena.

Eastwood, 'Unforgiven' to dominate Oscar night

Oscar's clubby domain has been invaded this year by British film makers, who can claim nominations in the top six categories, including Best Picture. And they've done it with films of great quality, but not-so-great budgets, like "The Crying Game" and "Howards End."

Still, when the Academy Award telecast airs at 8 p.m. March 29 on KTVI-TV (Channel 2), don't look for Oscar gold to go across the Atlantic.

My predictions in the top six categories are not necessarily what I feel should win. Frequently, the Oscars are a popularity contest first and an award for quality second.

That fact will affect the voting in a big way this year, most noticeably in the favor of 62-year-old Clint Eastwood.

Billy Crystal will again serve as master of ceremonies.

Best Picture: "The Crying Game" is too controversial.

Harry Hamm

"Howards End" is too derivative of other British dramas in recent years. "A Few Good Men" is too slight. "Scent Of A Woman" isn't as popular as its star; therefore, watch for "Unforgiven" to pull an upset this year, as Eastwood garners the equivalent of a lifetime achievement award.

Best Actor: Al Pacino is one of the most nominated actors to never win an Oscar in the history of the Academy. He's been up eight times and never found his name in the envelope. Pacino's luck changes this year. He'll win for "Scent Of A Woman."

Best Actress: This category is full of great actresses in small films hardly anyone saw. However, the most viewed of the lot was "Howards End." My prediction is that Emma Thompson will win the Oscar in this category for that picture.

Best Director: Eastwood won this award from the Director's Guild Of America a few weeks ago. In the 65 years of Oscar voting, the DGA winner has failed to win the Oscar only twice. It won't happen this year. Eastwood will win Best Director for "Unforgiven."

Best Supporting Actress: Only one American actress, Marisa Tomei for "My Cousin Vinny," is nominated in this category, and she's a long shot. Look for Academy voters to therefore choose the least controversial and best respected of the other nominees, Joan Plowright for "Enchanted April."

Best Supporting Actor: At one point I felt Jack Nicholson had this award cinched for his work in "A Few Good Men." But reported Oscar wisdom says the role was too far over the top. Look for the ever-popular Gene Hackman to win his third Oscar for "Unforgiven."

Clint Eastwood aims to hit it big Monday night.
